Scope and Content

The materials in FOIA 2015-0797-F are a selective body of documents responsive to the topic of the FOIA. Researchers should consult the archivist about related material.

The records in this FOIA request concern the People's Republic of China's bid to host the 2000 Summer Olympics in Beijing. Other cities bidding included Sydney (Australia), Manchester (Great Britain), Berlin (Germany), and Istanbul (Turkey). Bidding took place in 1993. In response to concerns expressed in the State Department's 1992 report on Human Rights Practices in China, the United States House of Representatives passed a resolution on May 27, 1993 expressing that Beijing should not host the 2000 Summer Olympic Games. Some, particularly in China, viewed this action as a violation of the Olympic Spirit. This, along with the American interception of the Chinese container vessel Yinhe on mistaken allegations that the ship carried chemical weapons to Iran, strained American-Chinese relations. On September 23, 1993 the International Olympic Committee awarded the 2000 games to Sydney. However, Beijing successfully bid in 2001 to host the 2008 Summer Olympics.

Records processed and released in response to this FOIA request consist primarily of news clippings and press briefings communicated through National Security Council cables and emails. They address Chinese efforts to win the 2000 Olympics bid, reaction to the House Resolution, and reaction to the selection of Sydney.

Many of the records related to this FOIA case are closed for national security reasons.
